

PURPOSEFULLY Rising™

Spark excitement and passion in your organization

Short Bio:

Struggling with depression, near homelessness, and deep self-doubt, I realized that no one was going to rescue me, that no matter whose fault it was, it was up to me to change me.

Through research, mentors, and experiences, I learned that the keys to overcoming life's challenges are found in mental wellness, purpose, and connection. It became clear to me that by connecting deeply with my true self and others, I could rise above any obstacle purposefully.

Today, as a keynote speaker, workshop facilitator, and communication coach, I guide individuals and organizations in Purposefully Rising™, which teaches how to work with passion and engagement, connect authentically, and create positive change. Purposefully Rising™ is about finding the hero within you and seeing the hero within others. It's about discovering yourself and aligning your goals. It's about overcoming challenges, all while leading with a purpose and kindness.

Join me in Purposefully Rising™ above your obstacles, connecting with others meaningfully, and creating a more positive world.

Long Bio:

At the age of 5, after the sudden and mysterious loss of his father, David Fisher embarked on a quest for a hero, often finding consolation in acting on stage and in films. Graduating university with honours, and becoming a member of the Screen Actors Guild, didn't stop him from facing depression, near homelessness, and deep self-doubt. David came to the realization that waiting for a saviour wasn't an option—he needed to be his own hero.

Through years of exploration, study, mentorship, and personal experience, he learned that the keys to overcoming life's challenges are mental wellness, vulnerability, and connection. It became clear to David that by connecting deeply with his true empowered self and others, he could purposefully rise above obstacles and challenges, all with vulnerability and kindness. Using his understanding, education and passion for storytelling, he started his journey to empower others to do the same.

Today, through his Purposefully Rising™ process, David Fisher teaches individuals and organizations to find passion, purpose, and engagement, strengthen their connections, and create positive change, while having fun along the way. His keynotes, workshops, coaching sessions, and trainings are not just about communication, they are about transformation.

His approach is simple: by Purposefully Rising™, we tap into the hero within each of us and use that power toward working with engagement, passion, and focus, but more importantly, leading with intention and kindness.

Join David on this journey of connection and empowerment. Together, we can rise with others in meaningful ways, and create a world where every voice is heard, and every challenge is met with courage and compassion.
